QUESTIONS À LA UNE

QUESTIONS À LA UNE

22 EPISODES (2019)

The magazine-style programme Questions à la Une [Front Page Issues] investigates the core issues within Belgian society. All topics are fair game, as long as they address the issues that the programme puts on the front page! The broadcast's watchword is simple: conduct inquiries in a way that makes it an 'irritant', striking a note that is both pertinent and impertinent, with 'one foot in the door' if necessary! This investigative magazine-style programme is presented by Laurent Mathieu. Alongside the inquiries, the editorial team offers you immersive reporting, profiles of personalities (both famous and unknown), and follow-ups on investigations broadcast previously.

News in brief, big trials, and captivating stories supplemented in the studio by the presence of special observers. Devoir d'Enquête, an intense monthly encounter with court cases currently taking place, with each episode containing two separate items.

DANS L'OMBRE DU VIRUS

45 MINUTES (2020)

Dans l'ombre du virus offers up-close reports about all those who are fighting on the front line against this invisible enemy. We gain an insight into the day-to-day reality of doctors and nurses at a number of hospitals. How are the emergency services operating, how are treatments and admissions being organised, what are the risks and what is the atmosphere like? More specifically, how are the patients being cared for? We will also see how pharmacists are expressing extraordinary solidarity with those living in isolation. They are playing a crucial role in supporting and listening to them. Home visit nurses will reveal the difficulties they encounter on a daily basis. Care homes have made arrangements so that they can take care of the most vulnerable people. A unique insight into an ultra-secure laboratory will also be featured. The lab's researchers come into contact with the Coronavirus every day. They face a real race against time to find the right vaccine that will put an end to the virus...

LA BELGIQUE CRIMINELLE
26 MINUTES

8 EPISODES (2020)

Do you know what characterises a criminal? They are men and women of their time. Reliving the great criminal cases that have marked Belgium means re-immersing ourselves in Belgian history and its evolution. Because there's so much more to a crime than just a blood-soaked news item. It tells us of the despair of those living in its aftermath, like the way avid readers devour every last detail of a police investigation. Thanks to a look at crown court documents, we also see the history of the Belgian justice system and the changes it has undergone, as portrayed by the crime. Far more than just justice. Far more than just a crime. Far more than just a criminal. In Brussels, Anvers, Liège, in the cities and in the countryside. This is our story, the story of the Belgium of yesteryear. In the 19th and (early) 20th centuries.

MA RUE COUCHE TOI LÀ 45 MINUTES

3 EPISODES (2019)

Every day, you take the same street, you follow the same path, going to work, home, school... Every day, you pass thousands of stories. Rue de la Gaieté – Binche

In the centre of Binche, rue de la Gaieté links up with the Grand-Place, the heart of the famous local carnival, during which oranges and confetti are thrown. The locals have so many stories to tell us, stories that are just not covered by the traditional carnival reports.

Rue de la Paix – Ixelles

To get from the shopping street chaussée d'Ixelles to vibrant Matongé, there is a direct route: via rue de la Paix. As you move from one world to the other, it's like switching from monochrome to technicolour, while encountering a whole spectrum of characters and stories. It's a real thoroughfare, with different moods for different times of day. In the morning, it acts as a corridor for Eurocrats hurrying to work; at midday it's great for lunch in Saint-Boniface, which takes on the feel of Paris's Saint-Germain-des-Prés especially for the occasion. At night it's invaded by party animals revelling until the small hours.

Rue Paradis – Liège

Is this street actually real? There's a church, "Sainte-Marie des Anges", built in the 19th century on the same site as a brothel called "Le Paradis Terrestre" ('The Earthly Paradise')...it's enough to tell you that the Rue Paradis has always been an eclectic sort of place. Even today it's no stranger to metaphors: a tax building that slices through it like a sword, a station that looks like a space ship about to take off... and what about the people who frequent it and teach us what life's all about: a mixture of dreams, fantasy and reality. Rue Paradis is an extraordinary street, just like any other!

From castles to summer residences, you can sit back and be guided around by the experts (architects, historians, sociologists, artisans, etc.). They will reveal how these castles, victims of bloody wars or internal conflicts, have escaped justice, demolition or sale, often by the skin of their teeth.
